LOCAL LACONICS.

Third Year.

With this issue THE STAR enters its third year. We have not a long list of promises to give our readers for the third year. In the future, as in the past, will endeavor to give the readers of THE STAR all the news of the day, especially the local news. We will stand up for the business interests of our town and community; will oppose anything that will be an injury to the town or her people. We allow every person the privilege of having an opinion of their own and we claim the same privilege. This is claimed to be a free country, but it is not with some people, for if you don't agree with them they fly into a passion. A few people who are well able to pay have neglected to liquidate their subscriptions to THE STAR for the first two years, and a number are in arrears for the second year. As the amount is small, people merely neglect to pay and, hence, it remains unpaid. While it is a small matter to the subscribers, it is an important matter to the printer, for a number of small amounts soon run into money, and we can use money in our business just now. Of course any who work in the mines, and are in arrears, we don't expect them to pay until after the strike is over. It don't cost much to run a newspaper, all the expenses connected with it is to buy paper, ink, pay rent, express, freight, two or three men every week, gas, water, postage on papers, &c., &c., besides what little it takes for the editor to live on. When these trifles are carefully considered we hope all in arrears will call at this office and exchange a little "coin of the realm" for subscription receipts.

Mrs. W. P. Jenks, of Brookville, died at her home last Wednesday. Her remains were buried in the Brookville cemetery on Friday. The bereaved husband, Judge W. P. Jenks, is well known not only in Jefferson county but in other sections of the state.

A. J. Postlethwait, who was to teach a summer school at this place, has given up that intention because he did not get scholars enough to pay him to teach. Mr. Postlethwait is an excellent teacher and it is likely the strike is effecting the pocket books of those who would send their children had it not been for the strike.

Arm Broken.
Garfield Humphrey, son of J. M. Humphrey, fell off a picket fence the latter part of last week and broke his right fore-arm.

The End Nigh.
A joint meeting of operators and miners will be held at Cleveland, Ohio, on the 15th of this month when it is expected the difficulty will be settled and the strike declared off. The general impression is that the strike will not last longer than that time.

Will Enforce the Law.
For sometime the fast driving ordinance has been a "dead letter" and horses have been driven through town at their fastest gait. We were requested by Burgess Lattimer yesterday to give the people fair warning on two things on which he says he will certainly enforce the law, and that is fast driving through the streets at any time and for driving up and down street for pleasure on Sunday. The Burgess says he means business and will enforce the law regardless of who the party may be that breaks it.

Prohibition Convention.
The Prohibitionists of Jefferson county will hold a convention in Centennial hall at 2:00 p. m. Tuesday, May 15th, for the purpose of electing delegates to the State Convention to be held at Williamsport June 6th, and to transact other business of importance.
The W. C. T. U. will serve dinner and supper in G. A. R. hall on the same day so those who attend the convention can get good meals served at very reasonable prices. The ladies also solicit the patronage of the citizens of Reynoldsville on that day. The W. C. T. U. ladies know how to serve good meals.

No Room For Them.
Two "soiled doves" from a nearby town moved to Reynoldsville a few days ago and have opened a "ranch" on Jackson street. They claim to be dress-makers. If the officers do not find them out and oust them out of town, we will speak more plainly about the house. There is enough devilry in our town without allowing an open house of a demoralizing nature to exist within our borders.
Since the above notice was set in type the owner of the house found out what kind of a "ranch" they were running and he made them move. They now occupy a house on East Main street near Macro's grocery store.

Died Suddenly.
W. P. Barrett, who was employed as bartender for E. O'Reilly at Hotel America, died suddenly at this place last Wednesday and was buried in the Catholic cemetery Thursday afternoon. The floral offerings were very pretty, and were furnished as follows: pillow of roses, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Roll, of City Hotel; anchor of roses, brothers of deceased; callie lilies, J. Eberanthony. A number of relatives and friends from DuBois, Ridgway and Portland Mills attended the funeral. Wm. P. Barrett was married to Miss Cora McGrody, of this place, several years ago, whom he leaves a widow with two children, a boy 18 months old and a girl 3 months old. The deceased was twenty-six years old.

Relief Committee.
The miners have appointed a relief committee for the Bell, Lewis & Yates C. M. Co. employees at this place and Rathmel. Three of the committee, John McIntyre, John Robinson and John McCormick, live at Reynoldsville and the other three, James Beveridge, Isaac Flenner and Jas. Lyden live at Rathmel. These gentlemen were soliciting aid from the business men of Reynoldsville last week. The same committee will buy such groceries as are needed and will supply all who are really in need of the necessities of life to keep soul and body together. The committee will not give money, only something to eat. Any person who has not been asked that feels like giving anything for this purpose can give it to any of the above named gentlemen. All contributions thankfully received.

Jailed Saturday.
Howard Steele, son of the noted "Red Jacket," was taken to Brookville jail Saturday by Frank P. Adlesperger. Howard made himself too numerous around the coke ovens and on Friday broke the locks on several ovens and then showed signs of flight and made threats when taken to task for his misdemeanor. He had two straps in his pockets with iron tied on the end of each one which he proposed to use if the opportunity was given. Howard has been hankering after a "hunk" at Hotel de Gourley for several months. He said some time ago he would do something to get to jail. "Like mother, like son," "Red Jacket" is now enjoying life in "durance vile" and the son wants to have the same honor. Just before the train came in Saturday Howard was sitting in the A. V. station with his wrists bedecked with handcuffs and a "woe-begone" expression plainly written on his countenance, when a young man walked passed him and dropped a large piece of tobacco in his hand. A four-by-ten smile spread over his dirty face in an instant. After he got a hunk of that tobacco rolling around between his jaws he was apparently as happy as a "clam in high tide."

DETECTIVE WHITAKER.
Found a Pair of Game Chickens he was Accused of Stealing.
M. Thomas, the tomorial artist, owned a pair of game chickens that he prized highly. About three months ago Titus Whitaker and a gentleman friend from the south end of the county, went to Mr. Thomas' coop to see the chickens and wanted to buy the pair, but they were not for sale. A few nights afterwards the chickens were stolen. Mr. Thomas told Titus that he had stolen the chickens. Titus denied the accusation and even went before a Justice of the Peace and was qualified that he had not committed the theft. Titus was not satisfied and resolved that he would quietly assume the role of a detective and find that pair of game chickens if it took him all year, so at it he went. He became very much interested in chickens and would frame excuses to visit various chicken coops in Reynoldsville. He talked and dreamed of chickens and kept his eyes and ears open until at last he learned that a party at DuBois had a very pretty pair of game chickens. Last Thursday forenoon Titus drove to DuBois and inquired and traveled around until he found the home of the owner of the fowls. There was no one at the house but an old lady and as they had some little pups there Titus admired them and made the lady promise she would sell him one when they were a little older grown, then he wanted to see the chickens. Titus knew the pair of game ones were Mr. Thomas' but he said nothing about it to the lady and left telling her to be sure and keep the dog for him. Titus came to Reynoldsville and he and Mr. Thomas returned to DuBois in the afternoon of the same day and got the chickens. When Mr. Thomas told the woman that they were his chickens she said: "May be they are, and may be they are not." When he told her he would go down town and be qualified that they were his chickens and send an officer after them then she willed and willingly gave up the fowls. The chickens were owned by the boy who was away from home at the time, Mr. Thomas wrote to the father of the boy to bring his son down and give an account of how he got the chickens or he would send an officer after them. The DuBois boy was in Reynoldsville visiting a young man about the time Mr. Thomas' coop was robbed. The Reynoldsville youth whom he was visiting had been guilty of stealing, but the matter was hushed up for his parents sake. If he had a hand in this stealing, although it was only a pair of chickens, he will likely suffer for it; he will be exposed at last.
Titus Whitaker cleared himself of stealing the chickens and Mr. Thomas gave him a new hat for his detective work.

Town Council.
The borough "dads" held their regular monthly meeting in the new Council Chamber Monday evening and transacted the following business: Bills to the amount of $221.85 were ordered to be paid; a petition was presented asking for an alley on south side of Jackson street, between Fourth and Fifth streets; it was consigned to the waste basket; a petition for a sidewalk on Russ street, from Grant to Hill st., was laid on the table indefinitely; John W. Phillippi wanted to sell the borough a Climax Road Machine for $235.00, but the "dads" did not buy; Hose Co. No. 2 asked for a suitable place for their hose cart, hose and fixtures, and to hold meetings in; a committee was appointed to look after the matter; a petition for a grade for sidewalk on north side of Beech st. was granted; Geo. F. Cant and J. D. Lowther to do the grading; Daniel Nolan and H. S. Belpap offered to furnish brick free to the borough to pave 90 feet of sidewalk and st. on Fourth st. if borough would lay it, and borough to buy and lay 60 feet to alley back of Gordon property; the offer was rejected; street committee was instructed to purchase 3,000 feet of hemlock plank; street committee was instructed to ascertain the cost of a bridge over Soldier Run on Worth st.; the ordinance relating to vagrants, tramps, or any one who can not or will not pay fines imposed upon them by the Burgess or Justice of the Peace, passed second reading and is now a law; D. F. Robinson, Jos. S. Morrow and James Martin were granted a permit to furnish 18-inch sewerage pipe to be put in along Main street from Commercial Hotel to Sandy Lick Creek, borough to dig ditch and lay the pipe; the chief-of-police was instructed to either remain on the principal street on Saturday evenings until 12 o'clock and on special occasions or to hand in his resignation.

The Sprinkler.
The street sprinkler made its appearance Monday looking as neat as a country lassie on her way to summer school. A box four feet high has been put on a one horse wagon and the wagon and box have been painted white, the iron of the wagon painted black. The iron pipes of the sprinkler have been painted red, trimmed in black. Altogether the sprinkler looks all right, if the water had more force and would come out more freely, there would be no reason to object. The main object is to keep down the dust.

Henry A. Reed and Pat. Bolger sold tickets to amount of $51.50 yesterday for the entertainment in the opera house to-morrow evening for benefit of miners.

Six to Nine.
A lively game of ball was played on the grounds at this place Monday afternoon between the first nine and the company store nine. The yells that were frequently wafted to town on the strong breeze was evidence conclusive that a number of the on-lookers were enthusiastic. It must be remembered that base ball lovers have not had many opportunities for cheering since last season. This was really the first day ball of any consequence has been played here this season.

FAMILY SKELETON LET
An Interesting Case Tried in House.
There are few families that established for any length of time what have a "skeleton in the closet" which if turned loose would shake the people of the community in the skeleton stalks abroad. In quarrels and difficulties should be generally are, guarded with great care by all members of the household, and we believe the public has no right to pry into family secrets, but when such affairs are well "aired" at a law suit then it is public property. We mentioned in last week's issue that Abner Reed, a well to do farmer who lives near Sykesville, was trying to prove that the woman whom he had some thirty years ago solemnly promised to love, cherish, protect and provide for, is insane. Mr. Reed requested the Court of Jefferson Co. to appoint three commissioners to investigate the charge made by him that she is insane. The Court appointed Dr. Chas. M. Matson, David Eason and N. L. Strong, of Brookville, to hear testimony in the case. C. Mitchell, of Reynoldsville, was attorney for the defendant, and John E. Calderwood, of Punxsutawney, was attorney for the plaintiff. The case was begun in the Reynolds opera house Tuesday afternoon, because Mitchell's office was too small, as there were twelve witnesses on each side. It was continued on Wednesday morning for an hour when Dr. Matson was called to Brookville by the serious illness of Mrs. W. P. Jenks. It was postponed and taken up Friday morning. The case occupied all of Friday and until noon Saturday. Part of the time the opera house was filled, even to the gallery, with people who were anxious to hear the testimony. Mrs. Reed had the sympathy of most all the disinterested people who heard the evidence, and we believe the three gentlemen who compose the commission will inform the Court at the next term that they find Mrs. Reed to be some what eccentric but a sane woman.
The evidence given by good, responsible people show that the old lady has been treated shamefully by the man who calls her "dear wife" in the court room. They have a family of ten or eleven children and they are all on "papa's" side. According to the evidence Mr. Reed has choked his wife, blackened her eyes and kicked her. A witness swore that one of her sons kicked her along the public road until a neighbor stopped him. Abner wants to sell some coal land, but the old lady refuses to sign a deed unless her husband makes some provision for her keeping, which he refuses to do, and wants to make out that she is insane. About twelve years ago Mrs. Reed was insane for a short period and was an inmate of the Warren asylum. There was no evidence, however, on either side to show that Mrs. Reed's mind has been deranged in the past eight years. She does not stay in one place very long because her husband refuses to pay for her keeping or provide for her, and her home life is such that she cannot stay there. C. Mitchell, Mrs. Reed's attorney, wrote to her "lord and master" several weeks ago and informed him she was in need of shoes and clothing, but Reed did not answer the letter. He did call at Mulholland's and informed Mrs. Mulholland, with whom his wife has been staying for several months, that he would not furnish the clothing.
When she was on the farm Mrs. Reed gathered the eggs out of the barn and there was evidence to show that some person had sawed an opening in the floor on the left of the barn, where she walked to gather eggs, and then covered the hole over with rye straw and she fell through and was so badly injured that a doctor was called. One of her daughters came from Meadville, Pa., several weeks ago and called on her mother at this place, gave her a racket and then returned home. It seems remarkably strange that the entire family is against Mrs. Reed. A man whom Mrs. Reed had furnished provisions for himself and family many times when their larder was entirely empty, was one of Abner's witnesses and he was ready to swear that the old lady is really crazy. According to the evidence given the treatment this wife and mother received at her home was enough almost to drive a sane person insane. It is certainly a very strange case.
In their early married life Mrs. Reed gathered acorns to fatten pigs that were sold to make the first payment on the farm that her husband now wants to sell the coal that underlies it. Since her home becomes such an unpleasant place for her Mrs. Reed bought a piece of land near Sykesville and gathered berries to pay for it.
Abner Reed has a perfect right to provide for his wife, and because she would not sign a deed unless he would make some provision for her keeping is no sign that she is insane.
